Gateway (gát wa) n. something that serves as an entrance or access to a path or road: Gateway to our future

Only At S.U.!

As another year has rolled by, the eyes of Susquehanna's students have seen the world in unique and special ways. We have seen the powerful effects of Mother Nature, felt the energy of our own pride and grown into the future of our country. We have gone from close calls in football, to great basketball heights. We have witnessed the tension of finals and the relaxation of break.

Whether you travelled five or five-hundred miles to attend Susquehanna, the University we call home, has shown and prepared each and every one of us in a special way. At S.U. we are all individuals, we are never lost, never forgotten and never go unheard. We are Crusaders.

With it's headline reputation the time has never been better to feel the "Susquehanna Touch." We now have all seen the world in a different light, which shines brightest, "Only At S.U!"

Making your way in the world today takes everything you've got-Taking a break from all your worries, sure would help a lot
Wouldn't you like to get away-

Sometimes you gotta go Where everybody knows your name
And their always glad you came

You want to be where everybody knows your name.

Homecoming

Homecoming: the return of a group of people especially on a special occasion to a place formally frequented.

That is just what happened on October 6th and 7th of this year's homecoming. After lots of time and devotion was put into alumni and friends, the only thing that everyone was waiting on was the weather. Fortunately, it turned out to be a most inviting weekend with lots of sunshine and warm weather.

The festivities began on Friday evening with the homecoming parade, "Putting the Pieces Together," which marched through the town of Selinsgrove. As always, the floats were entertaining for participants and onlookers. The parade rounded its last corner at Degenstein Campus Center where the annual pep rally started up.

After days of anticipation, the 1995 homecoming court was announced. Freshman Victoria Long and Brad Minto, Sophomores Brian Anderson and Tamara Goll, and Juniors Pete Grover and Rachel Anderson were the underclassmen on the court, and homecoming crowns were presented to seniors Wendy Martin and Bryan Heninger.

On Saturday the football fans were not disappointed when the Crusaders defeated Lebanon Valley 39-26. At half time spectators were entertained by an excellent baton twirling performance by Heather Parent. Volleyball shut out Albright with a score of 3-0 while Tennis, Cross-Country, Soccer and Field Hockey gave their opponents a run for their money with some tough close games.

The Public Relations Student Society of America held its first annual Great Ball Race in which numerous prizes were awarded. Participants purchased golf balls to run down the pathway in hopes winning.

Overall it was an eventful, beautiful weekend which pleased students, faculty, friends and of course, Alumni.

Parents' Weekend

Parents' weekend is the one time during the year when Susquehanna students don't mind having their parents "drop in" on them. From the time parents and family arrived on Friday, October 27th until hugs were made goodbye Sunday, October 29th students were well fed, had clean sheets and full wallets.

Parents were invited to attend everything on campus from simulated classes to lunch in the cafe. Friday and Saturday night parents attended the play "Something's Afoot" and various parties on campus. Students were quite impressed with just how "social" their parents and in some cases even grandparents could be.

Saturday afternoon was filled with trips to the bookstore, shopping in town and a 21-14 victory on the football field against longtime rival "Lyco". After the game students, parents, relatives and friends fought the crowds at both BJ's and Front Street trying to get a cold beer and a good meal.

Parents' Weekend was a great success despite the annual threats of rain and the "wild" behavior of our elders!

Halloween

Halloween is the only time of the year that students can bust out of their shells to purposely look weird, scarey or even just plain stupid. At Susquehanna regardless of how strange we look Halloween night, a good time is had by all. The University's Scholar House students commemorated the holiday by carving pumpkins together. Costumes on campus ranged from beer cans, to devils and bikers. Other members of the Susquehanna Community used the holiday as an excuse to let loose and party both on and off campus. True to Susquehanna's own uniqueness, students spared no shame, creativity, or dollar in showing up with the ultimate costume. Another Hallow's Eve passed at SU and as usual the night was full of funny moments and more college memories.

Something's Afoot

The comedy, written by James McDonald, Robert Gerlach and David Vos, was performed in Weber Chapel during the 1995 Parents' Weekend. Directed by Larry Augustine, the cast entertained parents, students, and guests with the comical musical about a weekend stay at a house where the host mysteriously died. Throughout the play, the cast tried to piece together the clues and determine the killer. Cast members included : seniors Trevor Poremba and Butch Diminico, juniors Eric Connor, Allison Egger, J.D. Fitzpatrick, Christopher Newcomer, Marc Skarecki, Melanie Truckenbrod, and Wendy Turriziani, as well as sophomore Deirdre Newbold. The performance was widely attended, having nearly filled Weber Chapel during both the Friday and Saturday night performances.

Behind the scenes stage work made this play the success it was. The crew was required to simulate everything from a falling chandelier to the explosion of a staircase. The musical required dance work, musical talent, and hard work on the part of both the actors, and the supporting stage crew.

Music Events

Psychedelic Kitchen, Hectic Red, Wanderlust, Happy Van Gogh, Itchy Fingers...No, these aren't items on the menu down at BJ's they are just a sample of the bands that played to the Susquehanna community this year. When you stop to think about it, music plays a significant role on campus. A week doesn't go by at SU without something musical going on. Whether it's an Artist Series event, a student recital, a university ensemble performance, or even a student band set-up outside a dorm, music is alive here at Susquehanna.

For a small school, SU is fortunate to have such a wide variety of musical events. The Artist Series, for example brought the Kiev Chamber Orchestra to campus this year. In addition, SAC brings a variety of performers and bands to campus throughout the entire year including Dave Binder, Christine Kane, Where's the Band, and Hectic Red. Collective Soul was SAC's big concert event for the year. With Wanderlust, Collective Soul performed a sold-out concert in Weber Auditorium. Other organizations count on bands to draw crowds to their events. Students gathering for the Enviro Fair and those who put togheter pieces for the AIDS Quilt were entertained by various bands.

While music is a form of entertainment, for many on campus music is an education and ' way of life.' Susquhuehanna students may be involved in several different musical organizations including University Choir, Chamber Singers, University Chorale, FRONTLINE, Symphonic Band, Stadium Band, and other woodwind, brass, and string ensembles.

The combined efforts of student performers and campus organizations provide Susquehanna students, faculty and staff and the surrounding communities with a wide variety of musical events.

Happy Anniversary

Since 1976, Susquehanna University students have volunteered over 186,000 hours of service through the Project House System. The year marks the 20th Anniversary of the volunteer Project House System. The system has grown to 12 student-initiated projects responding to the needs on campus and in the surrounding communities for volunteer services. Collectively the 12 projects gather under the Susquehanna University Neighborhood (S.U.N.) Council.

As a means to share ideas and information, as well as coordinate large volunteer events, representatives from the 12 projects meet regularly with S.U.N. Council's executive officers. In addition to individual project work, as a whole S.U.N. Council worked together this year in providing help and assistance to victims of the flood.

The 1995-96 Project House System consisted of the following projects: Acts 29: Acts 29 is made up of teams of students who through singing, puppetry, clowning, drama, and preaching declare the Good News. This year Acts 29 celebrated their 15th anniversary. Arts Alive!: Serving as a liaison between the university and surrounding communities, Arts Alive! promotes university events and sponsors special events such as students art shows and workshopos for area children. Big Brothers/Big Sisters: Affiliated with Big Brothers/Big Sisters of America this project provides children in the community with appropriate camaraderie, support, guidance and understanding in regard to their various social and emotional needs. Computer Consultants: In their effort to provide information and assistance to the students, faculty, staff, and surrounding communities on a variety of computer related topics, Computer Consultants run a hotline and an electronic bulletin board system, and hold workshops and tutoring sessions.

"The strength of the Project House System and the thanks we receive from the community, will enable us to continue our work for another 20 years!"

Spring Theatre

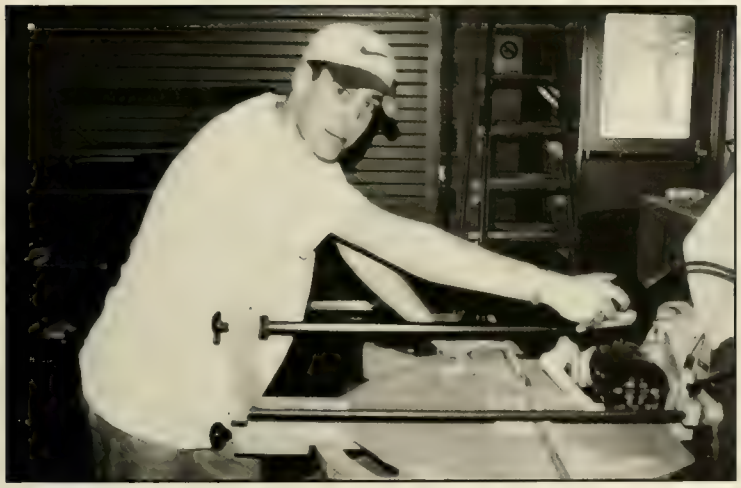
The Spring Theatre season at Susquehanna turned out to be a very successful one. The season opened in March with the play, "Three Birds Alighting On A Field." This play written by Timberlake Wertenbaker presented issues that related to the arts and politics. It was directed by Mary Jo Sodd. This play is the last performance Mary Jo will be involved with at Susquehanna. Many of the actors that participated in this production felt both sad and proud that they were part of Sodd's final performance.

The Theatre Production class began working on the set for "Three Birds" in January and did not end until opening night. All of their efforts ultimately paid off in a beautiful set designed by Herb O'Dell. Some of the stars of the play were: Kristi Gipe, Anita Anan, Curtis Duke, Katie Ziegler, Chris Hanson, Annette Gasparro and Jason Milner.

The last weekend of April concluded the play season with the production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," directed by Axel Kleinsorg. The play was written by William Shakespeare in 1596 and has been presented for 400 years.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" is a play within a play. It presents deception, betrayal, devotion and the understanding of love all with a sense of humor. The play's set designer was again Herb O'Dell, with scenery production done by the Theatre Production class. This performance was also presented to sellot high school audience.

Students who performed in the leads of this show included: Trevor Poremba, Kurt Dubrink, Shannan Bowersox, George Cullinan, Marc Skarecki, Eric Conner, Melanie Truckenbrod and Chris Newcomer.



"A Midsummer Night's Dream, was a wonderful learning experience. I was able to work with many talented individuals, and we produced a show we could be proud of."

Giuseppe Debartolo '99

"Three Birds Alighting On A Field, was a great experience for me. It was my first show here at SU and it will be the most wonderful memory because I had the honor to work with Mary Jo Sodd and an extraordinary cast of talented actors."

Flood of '96

When students arrived back to Susquehanna's usually tranquil atmosphere after a five week Christmas break, they faced a small town struck with disaster. The Susquehanna River, which was always one of the area's most beautiful attributes, became the area's biggest nightmare. With record snowfall of approximately three to five feet just two weeks before, the melting ice overflowed the river into the town of Selinsgrove. Many students were forced out of their off-campus residences on the Isle of Q, and alternative roadways into town had to be found. Roads were blocked, shops were closed, and classes canceled, but most of all people were afraid.

As weeks went by slowly the small town of Selinsgrove, home to Susquehanna University, and its neighbor Sunbury, were restored back to relative normality. The Flood of '96 reminded us all just how powerful Mother Nature can be.

This spread is dedicated to the residents of Selinsgrove and Sunbury, and all those who lost homes and businesses in the area.

Spring Break

From March 9th to March 16th many of Susquehanna's students took the opportunity to travel to warm places, relax and unwind from mid-terms, but most of all they went to party!

Students went to Cancun, Key West, Panama City, Daytona, Jamaica, and the Bahamas. During the days Spring Breakers enjoyed laying out on beautiful beaches, starting Happy Hour at noon, scuba diving adventures, and sorted hotel catastrophies. At night students danced the night away at various clubs and bars, some even found their way onto MTV.

There were many great memories of Spring Break '96 including: waiting in airports at all hours of the night, U-Haul rides, bargaining for silver, counting pesos to get a bus ride home and learning the Macarena dance.

All in all most students needed a vacation after their vacation, but it was worth it!

Spring Weekend

Susquehanna's Spring Weekend was a great success despite morning rain. Although many students were disappointed to hear the annual campus festivities would be held indoors, Susquehanna's students rose to the occasion and made their own fun.

On campus in the Degenstein Campus Center, students enjoyed a live band, carnival games and great food. In the mean time, whiffleball games on Orange Street, BBQs at the greek houses, hot tubs, mud-filled woods, couch lounging in pick-up trucks, partying behind University Ave. and hanging out down town were the activities of choice away from Degenstein.

The weekend, although full of May showers, turned out to be nothing but food, fun, friends and "Alum." Spring Weekend was an excellent antidote to the anticipated stress students felt toward an upcoming week of finals!

Off-Campus Living

Orange Street, High Street, The Warehouse, and The Mill are just a few of the places off-campus where students have migrated in order to get away from the monotony of on-campus living. Most Juniors and Seniors of Susquehanna move off-campus to get away from quiet-hours, communal living, and the natural gossip circles that surround the walls of our well-loved dormitories.

Other popular and promising off-campus locations include: The Island of Q, Liberty Alley, Above the Sub, Water Street, Market Street, and Charles Street. Upon our off-campus premises, students no longer have to deal with RAs or cafeteria food. Instead they now have to live with new problems such as Land-Lords and the preparation of fine cuisine.

Although off-campus students miss the experience of truly being part of campus life; the new attributes of living in an apartment or house have their own luxuries. These include everything from barbecuing, to playing a friendly game of outdoor Beirut.

It really doesn't matter whether students dwell along the Susquehanna River or live above BJs, Selinsgrove is filled with places to live to meet anyones lifestyle. Selinsgrove students and locals have lived together in a positive communal setting for several years, and will continue for several more to come.

Downtown

"Downtown...Nothin' but trouble!"

Darryn Cregan '96

"Where else in the world can you get Bongo Bongo so hot, Bombers so large and Beam and Cokes so strong?"

Jacquie Lisa '97

What usually comes to mind when you hear Kamikaze, Blow job, Brain hemorrage, or Mind eraser? Well, it doesn't have anything to do with Japanese fighter pilots, sexual connotations, or brain surgery. These sometimes perverted, sometimes just plain sick drinks are usually the reason for the peilous cries heard from within the walls of the Selingrove's infamous downtown area.

The idea of going downtown may mean a lot of different things, to a lot of different people. Downtown in "the grove" may mean casually sipping a "Bomber" with some friends, or to others, it may be throwing back a few .50 cent drafts. Or it could be the opportunity to play a few pranks on naive and ignorant newly turned 21 year olds. This fearful new drinker has to worry about the faded memories of "Prairie fires," "Three wisemen," and "Jolly rancher" shots. When we think back to our 21st birthday, the thoughts of passing-out early or reading the American Standard label may come to mind.

Regardless of the whopping choice of the four bars one has to choose from, we've all found a home in BJ's, Bot's, Mr. Kelly's and Russell's. The time spent at these establishments has given us each time to unwind, relax, hang-out, or even guest bartend. We have had the opportunity to enjoy our small campus downtown together. One can almost guarantee the sight of a familiar face, whether it be a Professor or a Freshman neighbor.

So whether you walk out of BJ's or get help walking out, one thing is always true, the downtown area leads us to take pride in our local watering holes, despite who is with us or where it lands us at the dreaded last call.

Seven Years

Two barefoot slaps on cracked macadam shatter the puddles of reflection.
One jump on leaky rainbow hop-scotch might pull the rain again on you and me.
Four dance patterns (beware of the last) run down the driveway to the gutter.

Three times last Monday we sang in tune:
our sandals vocalized on the earth.
A sixpence reserved the last dance step,
the chalk coffin you drew.
By five, you sighed your final good-bye
as I waved with powdered-sugar hands.

I jump into the third pattern, the closest I can get.
Standing on my tip toes, I lean into your box to put colored chalk and the sixpence in your cold hands.

Poetry By Melissa Kahn

Art By Shannon Fincke

From where I paint white stucco
on the side of his house,
I look down
to watch him turn, contort, look for his four.
He wears it on his back, I imagine, not for the four,
but for the fact of numbers, and order. He knows numbers are a language;
the semantics of mathematics are spelled out on the back of the nine-banded armadillo, its armor folding so that it is the pill bug running from light brought under the rock in the garden.
This is why he is four.
This is what he shares with the armadillo.
And the octopus, whose eight legs are the days until number four turns five. And the giraffe, whose seven neck bones mirror my own, high above where the only thing on my back is the sunburn of a summer spent painting.

Roommates

Learning does not always happen in the classrooms.

When Marcus Valerius Martialis wrote."

...There is no living with you, or without you," in his Epigrams, he must have been referring to his Roommate. Everyone who has shared a room with someone has their share of both wonderful memories and horror stories. How could you forget the time the two of you stayed out partying until the sun came up or the time your Roommate burst into the room at three in the morning when you had a huge test in four hours?

You may remember that sometime before you came to Susquehanna as a new student, you received a questionnaire regarding your interests, sleeping habits and preferences concerning smoking-non smoking, clean or messy room, and single sex or coed dorms. Upon arrival you discover you have been paired with a roommate who supposedly answered those whopping five questions with similar answers. The realization that you are going to be living with a complete stranger hits you all at once. Now you are in a panic. What am I supposed to say? Why does my roommate get the top bunk? Am I taking up too much space?

As you look back on this awkward moment at the end of the semester, it is hard to believe that your new best friend or worst enemy was a complete stranger five months ago and now you know your Roommate inside and out. By the end of the year you have learned a lot about yourself and how to deal with all walks of life. The lesson you learned in that first year helped you decide on a compatible Roommate for the next three years.

"There are good times and there are bad times, but the good definitely out weigh the bad. My roommates and I share a bond that could only be created by living together and will last far beyond our years here at Susquehanna."

Caroline Bradley '97

"Sometimes we go out, but other times we have just as much fun staying home together sitting in a circle."

Jake Dinsmore '96

"We love each other at the patch!"

Marc Alofs '96

"There's never a dull moment!"

Friends

When we chose Susquehanna to be our Alma Mater we looked at the education we would receive, but long after graduation it will be the people we met here that will be most remembered. The people we now call friends.

Through the good times and the bad, it is our friends that laugh with us and lend us a shoulder to cry on when we need it. Friends are the people you can always count on, whether it be talking through all hours of the night or loaning you that perfect outfit for a date. A friend is a person who helps you out when there is a problem and who supports what you are trying to accomplish.

At Susquehanna many of us are far from home and look toward our friends to be our family in times of need. The friends that we have met will forever be in our memories and always have a place in our heart. The friends we make at S.U. are very special people, each unique in their own way, and each bringing something different to our lives. The experiences we've shared with our friends can not be compared to anything else. They are what make Susquehanna so special.

"It's difficult not to make special friendships when you are with people all the time. How can you not become close when you are working, studying, socializing and brushing your teeth together!"
Karin Thompson '96

Remember When...

Remember the nervous butterflies you felt pulling up to your freshman dorm for the first time... or walking into your first S.U. party, not mention trying to find your first class? Or the fear of dropping your tray in the middle of the caf and the excitement of hearing the phone double ring?

That was a long time ago, but unfortunately pictures from Freshman year still haunt our albums. These skeletons tell the tale of a time when our bodies were fifteen pounds lighter, our hair a little bigger and our brain a little smaller.

It's always frightening to look back at the way we were, but somehow the memories that come rushing back make the embarrassment altogether worth it. So when you're old and grey, pull out those archives and try to remember how it all began.

All Dressed Up

Social life here at S.U. can vary from on campus soirees, to kicking back downtown with a cold pitcher of beer and good company. But every now and then there are a few formal events that require us to kick off our sneaks and dig our best duds.

For the men on campus getting ready for a formal or going somewhere special usually involves a quick shower, khakis, and rushing to get to their date, that is if they don't wait five minutes before to find one.

The women however take a different approach, one that requires careful planning. S.U girls can be found weeks ahead (of a formal) at tanning salons, to insure winter paleness doesn't ruin the look. But the primping doesn't end there, nails and hair must be perfect, not to mention match the dress.

The preparation while very different still produce the same memorable results. Good food, great dancing and exciting friends make the night memorable as well as funny.

We may not dress-up at Susquehanna that often, but when we do, we do it with style and a touch of class.

The Gamma Omicron chapter of Alpha Delta Pi was established at Susquehanna University in 1957. Our motto is, "We liver for each other." The colors of Alpha Delta Pi are azure blue and white. The philanthropy for our chapter is the Ronald McDonald house in Danville, PA. Each year, the entire sisterhood participates in the Ron-A-Thon, in which we raise money for this cause. In addition to the money raised at the Ron-A-Thon, all of the money raised at the Hit-A-Pi-With-A-Pie also goes to the Ronald McDonald house. Besides our philanthropy, ADPi and fraternities on campus hold Easter and Halloween parties for the underprivileged children in the area.

Our chapter holds special events for our parents on Parents Weekend. We hold a Harvest Open House for faculty and staff of Susquehanna University. Our sisters participate in many campus activities; including various clubs, sports, and other organizations.

ADPi also takes part in many sisterhood activities; slumber parties, house clean-up, and TIPS training to name a few. In addition to everything, we also have formals, date parties, and mixers. Some of our annual events include the hayride, Theta Chi Wedding, Golf Mixer and the Beach Party with Sig Ep.

SIGMA KAPPA

If one phrase can describe Sigma Kappa, it is "One Heart, One Way." Our colors are lavender and maroon and the pearl and violet are our symbols.

Our sisters are involved in a variety of activities ranging from varsity sports to pre-professional organizations. Sigma Kappas make their mark on Susquehanna's campus by working on the Orientation Team, lollipop sale fundraising for Penn Lutheran Village, participating in a Walk-A-Thon, and bowling with Phi Sig for charity.

On the lighter side, Sigma Kappas can be found enjoying mixers around campus. Some of our mixers include a Grease mixer with Theta Chi and a Christmas Party with Sig Ep. We also took the first place in the Homecoming Parade float competition with Sig Ep.

Sigma Kappa's 'Week of Giving' shows the pride we take in sisterhood. Being a Sigma Kappa is knowing that, "if we weren't sisters we would still be friends."

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Zeta Tau Alpha is the third largest sorority and we are comprised of diverse women involved in a wide variety of activities. Some of these include being residence life staff members, presidential scholars, and student advisors; participating in varsity and intramural athletics, Orientation Team, and theatrics. ZTA also has the highest GPA on campus.

Going beyond campus activities, ZTAs can be found supporting our national Susan G. Komen Foundation for Breast Cancer, by distributing shower cards and raising funds through our cup sale, carnation sale, and dress down days. We can also be found serving the community by lending a helping hand to the women at the Haven House, cleaning up Sassafras Street for Adopt-A-Highway, supporting Women In Transition, and holding various food drives.

Being a part of Zeta also means having the opportunity to experience different social activities. For instance, ZTA holds formals in the spring and the fall, while also having theme mixers with fraternities on campus. We also have haunted hay ride date parties.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Since 1901, Sig Ep brothers have lived by the principles of Virtue, Diligence, and Brotherly Love. Together we work to achieve pride through excellence.

At Susquehanna, Sig Eps have been striving to make a difference since 1984. On the athletic side, our brothers participate in sports ranging from football to crew. We are also actively involved in intramural sports.

Sig Eps volunteer on and off campus. Many of our brothers are members of the S.H.O.E. project house. We work very closely with SUN Home Health Services to increase awareness of children's health issues. Our national philanthropy is the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation. We also participate in the Adopt-A-Highway program. Together with Kappa Delta, we sponsor a Christmas party for the benefit of local children.

Sig Ep also gets involved on the social side by planning mixers with the sororities. This year we enjoyed our Island Paradise mixer with ADPi, Marriage mixer with Zeta, and our Christmas Party with Sigma Kappa. You can always find brothers roadtripping to local Sig Ep chapters or getting together to play paintball, or going to a Hershey Bear's Game.

Our brothers continue a tradition of excellence as shown by our Greek Week Championship two years running. We also took first place in the Homecoming Parade with Sigma Kappa.

We stand together as Sig Ep brothers-"loved or hated, but never ignored."

Football

"If we played every game at home this year, we would have been 9-1. In order to be a championship team, you must win on the road."
Mike Barrett '97

There has been quite a change for the Susquehanna Football Crusaders. Sixth year head coach, Steve Briggs thought his 1995 team could change a 1994 6-4 finish, but unfortunately he was wrong. This 1995 season had a 5-5 finish. It was disappointing for the team, but some important factors came into play. The Crusaders had only ten starters, 5 offensive and 5 defensive returned from last years edition. As the season progressed, many injuries occurred among the players.

The team may not have lived up to its expectations, however, the players have. This years 1995 MAC Commonwealth League All-Stars for the first team consisted of Lenny Ebel- Defensive Back, Kamief Jenkins-Wide Receiver and Roger Weist- Linebacker. The second consisted of Joe Balint- Offensive Line, Don Duffy- Halfback and Erich Maerz- Outside Linebacker.

MAC Fall Academic Honor Roll consisted of Lenny Ebel and Jeremy Tomaschik- Quarterback.

Cross Country

The men and women of the Cross-Country teams ran hard and ran well in this 1995 season. The year opened with men finishing 21/26 and the women finishing 24/27 at the Lebanon Valley College Invitational. Both the men's and women's team displayed high concentration and great enthusiasm. The teams were led by first year Head Coach Dick Hess and participated in seven invitationals this season. Susquehanna hosted its own invitational on September 23.

Both the team and coach feel they have a strong chance at a greatly improved record next year.

"With the loss of only one senior we can only improve next year."

Field Hockey

The numbers and experience proved to be positive to SU's toughest schedules to date. The field hockey team went for a 6-9 overall and 3-9 in the MAC. What the numbers do not show is the teams depth. There are many second year players who were ready to step up and fill the empty spots. The team was led by three senior captains Cheryl Irwine, Cassie Henry and Andrea Weaver.

"Our '95 team had a lot of talent, but I think we'll sooner remember the fun we had just being together."

"It was my Senior year on the team, and although we did not do as well as we expected, I'll never forget it."

Women's Soccer

The Women's Soccer team held a 3-11 overall and 2-3 MAC record. Four games this season were lost by one goal. The girls had a tough season but never lost the faith. Coach Kwame Lloyd has taken this year as a learning experience. On the field determination was strong and goals were set high. Each year this program has improved more and more. With the solid work ethic this Coach and Team has only good things can come in the future.

"With four losses by one goal our team had a lot of determination. It was not shown by our final record but we certainly had it."

Men's Soccer

The Men's Soccer team ended the season with a 6-9-3 overall and 2-4-1 MAC record. This season was an exciting one as Susquehanna battled the nationally ranked Elizabethtown team. Although the team lost 3-5 it was an example of the strong effort that was displayed on the field all season. The team continued to display high enthusiasm throughout the season. Both coaches and players feel they have gotten the experience with a tough season such as this one. to be a contender for a winning season in 96.

"The 1995 team showed a lot of skill in a heated battle against nationally ranked E-town on Oct. 5th. This was the kind of skill that should have made us 12-6 rather than 6-9-3."

Track and Field

Head Coach, Jim Taylor (Men's), knew he had a strong team right from the start. Taylor knows how to call them after directing his program to eight MAC outdoor titles and coached 29 Division III All-Americans. He is just one win away from cracking the 100-win plateau. Head Coach Dick Hess (Women's) felt equally as strong about the women this season.

The Women's team had thirteen returning letter-winners and displayed great enthusiasum and skill during competition. Alike, men showed a swift foot and strong arm.

Women's Basketball

The Lady Crusaders had a successful year. Under the direction of ninth-year head coach Mark Hribar, the team finished with a 15-9 record, losing in the MAC semi-finals to Scranton.

Coach Hribar holds the record for the most winnings in Susquehanna history with a career record of 149-76. Kay Czap supported Hribar as rookie Assistant Coach this season.

The team has also had excellent acknowledgements. Kristen Venne was named the MAC Commonwealth League "Rookie of the Year." Sandy Jenkin, Karrah Henry, and Kristen Venne were also named to the "All Torney" Team in Tip-off hosted by Susquehanna. The Lady Crusaders will be losing two starters next season, co-captains Trish Kunge and Kelly Mann.

Men's Basketball

"We lost a lot of games we shouldn't have, but we were there when it counted."
Tom Dempsey '97

If you count straight wins and losses, the Susquehanna Men's Basketball Team moved slow and steady to the finals. But in moves, oh what a show it was! The men's team rocked Houts Gymnasium consistently this season with dunks, fakes and jumps that kept the the room packed with fans screaming for more.

The earth shook from the cheers when the team defeated, under the direction of seventh-year Head Coach Frank Marcinek, long-time Susquehanna rivals, Lycoming in the semi-finals 73-66 on Feburary 22nd. Although the team lost in the finals to Wilkes, the team put a fight that will not be forgotten. Top returning players Senior Matt Heimbach, Senior Captain Jeff Rumbaugh, Juniors Kamief Jenkins, Scott Reed and Gerald Ross led the team, along with important newcomers, Dan Horner and Jarrod O'Neill. The men displayed the visual definition of team work. The team ended the season with a 14-2 record. Many believe the loss of Senior and Top Scorer, Matt Heimbach, for five games hurt the team's scoring performance late in the season.

Wrestling

Farewell to Susquehanna's Wrestling Team.

This year was the 30th and final season for the wrestling team. The sport has been dissolved at the University due to budget cuts. We'll miss the team and the sport greatly.

Coach Mills Eure returned eleven Letter-winners this season from last year's undermanned team. Expectations from Eure, and Co-captains Mike Barley and Mike Hardy were set high right from pre-season. They were out to prove something this year. The team was competing not only for themselves, but for the sport. Despite all the hard work and determination from the athletes and coaches, the Wrestling Team will no longer have the opportunity to compete at Susquehanna.

Baseball

"We surprised a lot of people this year. They didn't expect much of us when the season started. We came together as a team and made everyone take notice."
Joe Farley '97

This year's team had some big shoes to fill after last year's team MAC crown.
The team started fast but struggled up North for a while before finishing strong down the stretch to end the season 21-12.
This was the first time in Susquehanna history a team finished back-to-back 20-win seasons. The team lost in the finals, unable to defeat Elizabethtown in a tie-breaker, and could not maintain the MAC crown.
The season was filled with great ball playing and good team dynamics.

Softball

The Susquehanna Softball Team finished this year's season, under the direction of Head Coach Vince Anselmo, with a 17-16 record. The team had its ups and downs. When the weather was not a factor, an injury was. Junior starter, Jessica Naughton tore her ACL in the beginning of the season and the Crusaders lost a valuable player for the rest of the season. During a trip to Cocoa Beach Florida the ladies had a 4-4 finishing record in a far from home tournament.

Junior, Dina Fornataro, broke two school records this season. The first was "most stolen bases." Fornataro stole 25 bases beating the last record set in 1991.

Fornataro also had the most hits this season and was the first Susquehanna Softball player to be named MAC "Player of the Week." On the outlook for next season the team is confident they will continue to perform well, perhaps even surpass their own expectations. The team will only lose one player this year, Senior Sarah Herchik.

Women's Lacrosse

"The other teams in the MACs will be very surprised next season!"
Cassey Henry '96

This year's Women's Lacrosse Team has really taken a turn around. Under two new coaches, Head Coach Nancy Bilger and Assistant Coach Kuame Llyod, the team finished with a 3-6 record and finished third in the MACs.
The team was excited because of the underclassmen potential that was displayed very early on in the season.
During the pre-season the women traveled down to the prestigious William and Mary Tournament. The team has also had four players named to the MAC All-Stars, Senior Captain Cheryl Irwine, Senior Captain Cassie Henry, Junior Megan Donahoe, and Freshman Brandy Jenkins.
Though the team will be losing three seniors, Cheryl Irwine, Cassie Henry and Deb Morrow, they will have many returning Varsity Letters next season.

Dr. Joel Cunningham

President

Joel Luther Cunningham was inaugurated as the thirteenth President of Susquehanna University on September 29, 1985. He came to Susquehanna in 1979 as Vice President of Academic Affairs, Dean of Faculty, and Professor of Mathematics. Since he has recently completed his tenth year here as President, we would like to acknowledge his concern and devotion to our school and the students. President Cunningham is very well respected by both the faculty and student bodies. His presence on campus has the ability to motivate people to realize their full potential. Thank you, President Cunningham, and here's to another ten years!

There is something to be said of the relationship between the faculty and the students at Susquehanna University. Because the University has under two thousand students on its campus, the environment provides them with the interaction they need when being taught at a competitive college level. The faculty is dedicated and willing to help and support each individual by being available and reachable during times of need. This has proven to be extremely important, and attributes to the success of Susquehanna students. We want to dedicate this section to the faculty by offering our thanks and appreciation for making us ready to face the world.

Graduation

May 19,1996 was a very special day in the lives of 319 Susquehanna graduates that can now call themselves, "Alumni." On this unseasonable hot 103 degree Spring Sunday, water was more important to the graduates than diplomas.

Parents, Grandparents, students, relatives, faculty and friends all gathered on the lawn between Seibert and Selinsgrove Hall to celebrate the achievements of the 138th graduating class from the University. After the ceremony students popped champagne bottles, drenched their heads with cold water and gave hugs to the best friends they will ever have, in front of Degenstein Campus Center.

The new "Alum" spent the evening after the ceremony downtown and at off-campus gatherings. And at the end of the day many spent their last night at Susquehanna.

Perhaps the most important part of graduation day was not the ceremony or the pieces of paper the graduates took away, but the 1460 other days of memories and challenges it took for them to get there-

FALL HOUSE

The 1996 Lanthorn Staff

[illegible] Assistant, Eliza Dalton; [illegible] Dr. Jim Sodt; Editor in Chief, [illegible] Photography Editor, Sheryl Hirsch

Where in the world is Susquehanna?

Like many students at this University, in the past three years I have been asked this question a million times. Along with comments such as, Susque what?, Isn't that a river?, and Is that on an Indian Reservation? My response is always the same, "No, Susquehanna is a small Liberal Arts school in Central Pennsylvania." I have stopped adding that it is in Selinsgrove because not many people know where that is either.

As I sit at my computer, which I might add, I would not know how to turn on if it wasn't for the small university of Susquehanna, I am in New York City pursuing my career goals in Public Relations as a summer intern at a top financial company. I begin to realize that it is not where Susquehanna is, but rather what it allows its students to achieve both socially and professionally, that is truly the significant question.

Coming to Susquehanna in the fall of 1993 I was prepared to make more of my college experience than I did of my high school career. By the fall of 1995, I found myself achieving my goal and was chosen as the Editor-in-Chief of the 1996 Lanthorn Yearbook. What I realize now and did not then, is I would spend my Junior year working closely with a group of people who were bright, talented, hard working and all products of the Susquehanna experience. I now understand what a truly special place Susquehanna is and that the lifeline of this university is not in its beautiful buildings, well manicured lawns, or personalized education, but rather in its people. I have in three years at Susquehanna met wonderful friends, innovative classmates and dedicated professors. Susquehanna has afforded me the opportunity to understand my talents, fine tune my skills and given me the connections to achieve my goals.

Now going into my Senior year when asked, "Where in the world is Susquehanna?" I reply confidently, "Home."

I would like to thank Faculty Advisor Jim Sodt, Taylor Publishing's Ed Patrick Jr. and a staff of twenty Susquehanna students whom I have had the privilege to work with on this yearbook for the past eleven months. The team's dedication and talents should be commended. I appreciate all your efforts. I could not have done it without you.
